Food In Our Family's Early Days

Presented by Steve Seideman of Farmington, Arkansas

We all take our food supply for granted because it is always available and in abundance, but it has not always been that way. Many of our older relatives probably remember obtaining their food on the farm.

The right photo is from the under 25 year old category: the baker was Alexis Naumann (on right) with a “Blueberry Lemon Kuchen”, bought by Gail Freeborn for $45.

Secure Your Place in History

Contribute to the next Seidemann History and Family Tree Book

Thanks to efforts of Seidemann family genealogists & the book committee, our 2005 history and family tree book is the envy of genealogists around the world and used as a benchmark for recording the events of a great family name. New generations have been born since that publishing, so it is time to prepare for the next one.

We can’t do it without your help! We need volunteers with computer skills. Specifically:

(1) Incorporating new photos into the photo page sections will require someone with page layout skills, using something like InDesign software.

(2) Adjusting the family trees to handle new members will need database expertise and some programming. (The 2005 Edition used Microsoft Access software, though another could be utilized in its place.)

If you have one or more of these skills and can commit time towards an early 2023 publishing (in time for the 90th Seidemann Family Reunion), please email: secretary@seidemannfamily.org
